

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

Considerable interest is being manifested in the concert to be given in the Tabernacle Tuesday night by Alfred Best, the young Utah tenor who bids fair to rival some of the noted opera singers of the day. A gratifying surprise for Mr. Best and his friends a day or two ago came in the nature of a telegram from his manager in Berlin, Germany, stating that he had been recommended for the Metropolitan Opera company of New York for the season of 1910 and to arrange his plans accordingly.

Mr. Best is a native of Salt Lake and for many years was one of the leading soloists of the city. He has been studying the past few years under Ferguson in Berlin and his initial appearance in that city resulted in a three years' contract under Sauter, the European representative of the Metropolitan Opera company, and in a few weeks Mr. Best will return to Berlin and take up his work under this manager. Mr. Best will be assisted in his concert Tuesday evening by Professor J. J. McClellan and Willard Weihe, and the three musicians will leave immediately afterwards for a concert tour of the Northwest under the management of John D. Giles, who is also in charge of the concert here.

Mr. Hugh Dougall
